Advantage Of LED track light

The angle of illumination can be adjusted arbitrarily, and it is generally used as a spotlight where accent lighting is required. The track lights must be installed on the matching track. There are conductive metal strips on both sides of the track (the high-quality ones are made of copper and the inferior ones are made of iron), and the joints of the track lights have rotatable conductive copper. When installing, when the conductive copper sheet on the track light touches the conductive metal strip inside the track, the track light can be energized and the track light can be lit.
